

1,985 ON CELTIC GLAD TO SEE MISS LIBERTY

Voyage From the Irish Coast Was Just One Gale After Another.

J. P. MORGANS RETURN

Irish Problem Flashes Up in Vaudeville Show in Smoking Room.

After running through gales from the time she left the Irish coast till landfall on this coast, the White Star liner Celtic reached her pier yesterday one day late. She carried 1,985 passengers and brought $1,000,000 in gold.

All visitors were barred from the pier until Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, wife of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, who died in prison after a hunger strike lasting seventy-five days, and her sister-in-law left the ship.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan, who have spent four months in Scotland and England, returned on the Celtic. Mr. Morgan made a brief trip to France. The financier was hunting in Scotland when word reached him of the Wall Street explosion, in which his son Julius had a narrow escape. The interior of his banking house was badly damaged and several employees were killed or badly injured.

As is his custom, Mr. Morgan was silent concerning affairs at home or abroad. His only remark was that he "almost wished" he was a reporter, and several reporters present replied they wouldn't mind being millionaires.

The Irish question was the burning issue on the ship, and especially in the smoking room. Sam Shears, a partner of Ted Lewis, the boxer, staged a vaudeville show in the second cabin, and all went well until he played "God Save the King," at the end of the performance. Several Irish passengers then asked that he play the "Soldiers' Song," which has been adopted as the official hymn of the Irish republic. He said he didn't know it, and got up from the piano. Four Irishmen started for him with hostile intentions, but an Irishwoman shouted "Hold on, hold on!"

On board the ship were Charles J. Harvey, boxing promoter, and Ted Lewis, the boxer, who went over to box Jack Basham and beat him in nineteen rounds. Lewis will go back in February to box Jack Britton for the welterweight championship of the world in London.

George H. Elwes, an English tenor, arrived here with his wife, Lady Winifred, the daughter of the Earl of Denby, to sing in concert. Also on board was Capt. W. A. Dawson, commander of the Blue Funnel Line ship Ning Chow, here to take his vessel to China; Commodore Emanuel V. Parodi, head of the Federation of Italian Ship Owners of Italy and a prominent banker; Francesco S. Moirandini, a lawyer of Rome, who represents the United States Shipping Board in Italy; the Rev. Patrick R. Lynch, rector of St. James's Catholic Church of San Francisco, and the Rev. John Smyth of San Mateo county, California.

PLANE LANDS IN CEMETERY.

Mail Pilot Leaves Ship to Itself During the Night.

A large mail plane, running into a fog while on its way from Philadelphia to Garden City, L. I., was landed Friday night by the pilot while over New Jersey.

The pilot made a safe landing, but when he looked around at the "field" he had landed in he found he was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Arlington, N. J. He left immediately. At dawn yesterday morning he returned, turned up his motor with haste, and soared safely away.

CHECK ON IMMIGRATION

Johnson Has Measure for Speedy Action—Both Moves Cause Surprise.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD, Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—The repeal of the war laws and the suspension of virtually all immigration for at least a year will be the first legislative proposals to come before the House after its reconvening on Monday, the Republican steering committee of the House decided today.

Both measures are virtually certain to pass, and it is believed that the ending of the war laws can be accomplished whether the President vetoes this measure or not. Consideration of the two bills probably will start Tuesday, soon after the message of President Wilson has been received, members of the committee said.

DR. BLUE CONFIRMS RUSH OF EMIGRANTS

Says Europe Will Send All That Ships Will Carry and Our Laws Will Allow.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Dec. 4.—Emigration from Europe to the United States in the next few years will be limited only by the availability of shipping facilities or restrictive legislation, said Dr. Rupert Blue, former Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service, on returning to Paris today from an inspection trip. He is in charge of the medical examination of emigrants by American doctors in all the principal European ports. The doctors' reports, Dr. Blue asserted, show reservations which extend over a period of several years. Dr. Blue said the great increase in emigration was due mainly to misery in the home districts of the emigrants.

"There are many fine, healthy young former soldiers among the emigrants," Dr. Blue continued, "but the women and children are in miserable health as a result of privations. This impression is universally true, but applies particularly to the Italians, Rumanians, Czechs, Serbs, Croats and Poles. The emigrants from the Scandinavian countries and Spain are quite good. The percentage of old men and women is much lower than before the war."

If emigration is permitted soon from Germany, Hungary and Austria, Dr. Blue declared, the number of potential emigrants could not be calculated.

SEEK CHRISTMAS CHEER FOR WOUNDED SOLDIERS

Public Asked to Provide Dinners for 5,000.

The New York Community Service and the National Disabled Soldiers' League join in an appeal to have people of this city invite 5,000 disabled soldiers to their homes for Christmas dinner. The soldiers now are undergoing treatment at Fox Hills, Polyclinic, Brooklyn Naval and the Marine hospitals. There are more than 15,000 disabled soldiers in the metropolitan district, according to the appeal, but 10,000 of them will have their dinners in their own homes. The other 5,000 have not been provided for.

Persons desiring to invite a wounded soldier may communicate with the New York Community Service, 15 East Fortieth street, or the National Disabled Soldiers' League, 405 Lexington avenue.

WAR LAWS' REPEAL URGED ON CONGRESS

Bill to Be Introduced and Hearing Expected to Begin on Tuesday.

ARCHBISHOP TO PRESIDE

Society for Propagation of the Faith to Hold Vespers.

Archbishop Hayes will preside this afternoon and also officiate at the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at the annual vespers celebration of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, which will begin at 4 o'clock in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The Very Rev. Mgr. John J. Dunn, diocesan director of the society, has extended an invitation to all members of the society, their friends and all those interested in the welfare of Roman Catholic charities. Last year there were approximately 7,000 persons at the celebration, but Mgr. Dunn expects that this afternoon's attendance will exceed that number.

At noted Jesuit priest, the Rev. John J. Tompkins, S. J., will preach the sermon. Mgr. Dunn will read a report of the society for the past year.

WAR LAWS' REPEAL URGED ON CONGRESS

Repeal of the war laws and the suspension of virtually all immigration for at least a year will be the first legislative proposals to come before the House after its reconvening on Monday, the Republican steering committee of the House decided today.

Both measures are virtually certain to pass, and it is believed that the ending of the war laws can be accomplished whether the President vetoes this measure or not. Consideration of the two bills probably will start Tuesday, soon after the message of President Wilson has been received, members of the committee said.

In general the legislation already has been prepared and will be introduced in the House Monday. The repealer of the war laws has been written in a general way by Representative Volstead (Minn.), chairman of the Judiciary Committee. His committee will consider it.

Representative Johnson (Wash.), chairman of the Immigration Committee, has prepared a bill suspending immigration for a period of two years. The steering committee thought that the flood of immigrants should be stopped for at least a year, or until a comprehensive and more restrictive immigration law could be passed.

The decision of the steering committee to rush action on these two important measures came as a surprise. The impression had prevailed that nothing more than appropriation bills could be acted upon at this session of Congress.

Representative Nicholas Longworth (Ohio) and Representative Martin B. Madden (Illinois), members of the steering committee, insisted that conditions are such that both proposals merited prompt action. Because of the increasing flood of immigrants from Europe, the immigration suspension bill may be brought up first. Plans are to pass both of the bills before the holidays, members of the steering committee say.

The proposed repeal of the war laws involve fifty-four statutes passed during the war emergency, many of which are of minor importance, but some of which have delayed the return of the country to a normal peace time basis. Passage of the Knox resolution is regarded as impossible, because of the veto power of President Wilson. However, even if the President should veto the repealer of the war laws, which is not regarded as possible, the measure in all probability could be passed over his objection. When the Knox resolution was being considered last April in the House, Democrats in opposing it challenged the Republicans to bring in a resolution doing nothing more than repealing the war laws. Democratic leaders promised unanimous support for such a resolution.

A few of the war laws, such as the acts authorizing the Alien Property Custodian to seize German property in this country and the war risk insurance act, must be continued for some time yet, but the majority of the emergency acts can be repealed at once, the steering committee thought. Some of the acts were to run for stated periods after peace was proclaimed.

However, members of the steering
